2012 DC Central Kitchen Summer Internship Program

Position Title: Communications Intern

Department: Development/Communications

Supervisor: Paul Day

Stipend/Credit:
$1,200 stipend or credit

General Description:

DC Central Kitchen is seeking a Summer Communications Intern to help build its social media presence. As the Communications Intern, you'll spend the majority of your time gathering content and taking photos for news stories about DCCCK programs and events. You'll write stories for DCCCK's websites, social media channels, and e-mail newsletters. Your role will be crucial in increasing the reach of our web presence. In addition to producing content, you'll research and strategize ways to improve our social media presence.

Qualifications Needed:

- Basic web copywriting/editing skills
- Basic photography skills
- A passion for social media
- Knowledge of Photoshop, Wordpress, and basic HTML
- Genuine interest in communications and marketing as a career

This internship is an excellent opportunity to learn valuable communications/PR skills at an exciting and dynamic nonprofit that is heavily invested in social media for fundraising, event promotion, and media outreach.
